Biked.cc is dedicated to exploration and sharing personal accommodation between cyclists, with the goal of providing cyclists with a network of accommodations, as well as offering sharing circuits around these accommodations to promote adventure and exploration.

Biked.cc is a platform that connects cyclists with hosts who offer personal accommodations suitable for cyclists. Hosts on Biked.cc offer a range of accommodations, including spare rooms, guest houses, and even entire homes, specifically chosen for their location, facilities, and the surrounding cycling routes. This means that cyclists can find accommodation that is tailored to their needs and preferences and have access to a variety of cycling circuits around each accommodation.

Biked.cc is not just a platform for booking accommodation, but also a community for cyclists to share their experiences and discover new cycling routes. The website includes a forum where cyclists can share their adventures, ask for advice, and connect with like-minded travelers. Additionally, Biked.cc offers a range of cycling circuits for users to explore, with detailed information about each route, including distance, difficulty level, and points of interest along the way.

We're excited to launch Biked.cc and offer a unique travel experience for the cycling community. Our goal is to provide cyclists with a platform to connect with hosts who share their passion for cycling and offer accommodation that is specifically designed for their needs, as well as to provide a community where cyclists can share their experiences and discover new adventures.

The website is easy to use, with a simple booking system that allows cyclists to search for accommodations based on their location, preferred dates, and type of accommodation. Once a booking is confirmed, cyclists will receive detailed information about the accommodation and the surrounding cycling routes.
